It was really great being able to offer people the opportunity to learn from a master. The feedback was overwhelmingly positive. There were definitely a lot of challenges to organising such a massive tour across so many different sites working with so many different venues and so many moving parts but overall I think everything went very smoothly.

Not only did participants learn a great deal about the history and techniques of making traditional Korean pottery, we also learnt about the cultural values embedded within Korean society around food, sharing, and hospitality. There were many wonderful opportunities for cultural exchange and anyone who attended one of the sessions would be well prepared to travel to South Korea and thrive in Master Kwak's studio.

The Asia Foundation funding only accounted for approximately 10% of the overall budget - do you need all the receipts? The main expense was the artists fees - attached is proof of bank transfers. Happy to provide additional receipts/invoices as needed.
